Back to School Tips for Parents!

Oh the challenge of getting school back on the mind! If you want your child to hit the ground running this year, follow these helpful back to school tips!

Re-set sleep patterns - Of course we want our children to enjoy the last couple of weekends before school, but now is the best time to begin the best sleep practices for the school year! It is time to put an end to late bedtimes and sleeping late.

Re-set eating habits - Be mindful for what your student needs to maintain a high level of energy throughout that busy school day.

Set academic goals - Establishing well-defined goals is a great quality to instill in your student. Set goals for each class and hold your student accountable.

Social Media - Such a hard thing to combat these days! Self-discipline and concentration do not always mesh with the cell phone. Try a "no cell phone usage" rule after certain hours. This allows your student to focus on the important things like homework.

Get ready Parents - As parents we need to prepare ourselves to assist our live-in students for the best routines for maximum learning. Keep family activities such as dinner, chores, family outings, and so forth on a routine schedule! Be sure your student has to time to achieve success this year!
